It was the mystery that Nolan had sensed the first time he saw her staring at him across the village compound three days ago. At first he thought she was one of the company people? somebody's wife, daughter, sister. That afternoon, when he returned to the bungalow, he caught her staring at him again at the edge of the clearing. So he asked Moises who she was, and Moises didn't know. Apparently she'd just arrived a day or two before, paddling a crude catamaran downriver from somewhere out of the denser jungle stretching a thousand miles beyond. She had no English, and according to Moises, she didn't speak Spanish or Portuguese either. Not that she'd. "Don't think of them as ideas then, think of them as questions." .swamp..232. I have tried to speak to general issues rather than "defend" my own criticism. Issues are, in any case, more important than personalities, although there is a (small) section of fandom which sees in aesthetic or political disagreement nothing but personal squabbling motivated by envy. It's not for me to judge how good my criticism is; if enough readers think it's bad, and the editor thinks so too, presumably hell stop printing it although writing book reviews (except for places like the New York Times) is underpaid, overworked, and a labor of love. The problem is usually to recruit reviewers, not discourage them. John Varley's first story for F&Sf was "Picnic on Nearside" in 1974. Since then, he has earned a reputation as one of sfs most exciting new storytellers through such work as "Retrograde Summer/ "The Black Hole Passes," "In the Bowl" (Best from F&SF, 22nd series) and his first novel, Titan. This story was another Nebula award nominee. Nolan flinched, then halted as the shadow-shape glided forth from the darkened corner beside the open window. Amanda cried, "Matthew, don't?" Her eyes widened with horror. Her mouth moved again. Up above the burning city, a woman wails the blues. How she cries out, how she moans. Flames fed. "Why do you look at me like that, senor? Is it not natural for a woman to bulge when she carries a baby in her belly?" 19. He went down the hallway to the other bedroom. The door was ajar and he moved past it, calling softly. "Mama Dolores?" the mock-ups they made Earthside didn't survive the re-entry. It was the best we could do. I couldn't risk. The house lights momentarily dim and the crowd noise raises a few decibels. I realize I can't see features or faces or even separate bodies. There are simply too many people to comprehend. The crowd has fused into one huge tectonic slab of flesh. "Who is Ireina Khokolovna?" he asked. When the ship finally did show up, it was no longer a NASA ship. It was sponsored by the fledgling International Space Agency. Its crew came from all over Earth. Its drive was new, too, and a lot better than the old one. As usual, war had given research a kick in the pants. Its mission was to take up the Martian exploration where the first expedition had left off and, incidentally, to recover the remains of the twenty Americans for return to Earth. his hands. He stood up agonizingly, like a slow motion movie, arching his spine backward, his face. "You have no choice." Tendrils of green and blue wormed their way into the pattern.
